

Tree Hugging!

Written by Nicky
Tuesday, 11 October 2011 12:30

The lovely people at the Forestry Commission have chosen my photo of the children hugging a tree at Wendover, as one of their favourites in a competition! We've won some adventure tickets to 'GO APE!' The photo was taken on International Discovery Day. We had a brilliant time in the woods, sheltering at the Green School when the rain hammered down. As we were leaving, I remembered that there was a World Record attempt for the most amount of people hugging a tree at the same time happening on that day, in Delamare Forest.... so i thought we should join in from afar! Hence, the photo.... which i posted on the Forestry Commission's Facebook page, and lo and behold, today they announced the winners!! GO APE! here we come!!!